Feature wine :

Joie PTG 2006, Naramata Bench, BC

Occasionally we like to feature wines that are hard to get as well as representing a good value. This wine accomplishes both.

This wine is the first red offering from Joie Vineyards. Joie has been a small cult winery producing some of the best whites in BC for a few years. We had the opportunity to visit with the proprietors, Michael and Heidi at their home last summer where they gave us a tour of their new winery building at their Naramata vineyard.

The PTG, which stands for “Passetoutgrain” indicates a wine that is made up of both Pinot Noir and Gamay Noir. This is a classic Burgundy blend, but almost unheard of outside of France.

This is medium bodied with flavours of dried cherry, strawberry and leather showing through.

With very small production of only 193 cases this wine is not easy to find and we are one of only few restaurants to have this on our list.
